ANOTHER OBAMA MEDIA CRITIC AUDITED BY IRS
Vows to 'Blast ObamaCare'

(Los Angeles) Logan Clements, producer of the movie SICK & SICKER: ObamaCare Canadian Style, announced today that the Internal Revenue Service is auditing him.

News of Clements's audit follows a revelation that Breitbart News was also audited by the IRS. And it comes after Dinesh D'Souza revealed that the Federal Election Commission tried to have him put in prison for exceeding a donation limit. Breitbart News runs several websites critical of President Obama while Dinesh D'Souza produced 2016 a movie that was also critical of Obama. Clements's movie, SICK AND SICKER makes that case that ObamaCare will eventually lead to socialized medicine like Canada.

One year ago it was discovered that federal agents seized two months of phone records from the Associated Press. And around October 2013 author, neurosurgeon and public speaker Ben Carson was also hit with an audit. So in a video released today, Clements makes the case that these actions by federal agencies indicate a pattern of intimidation of critics by the Obama Administration.

Clements vows to fight back by releasing SICK AND SICKER to entire states through the Internet with the help of sponsors and citizen screeners. On his website BlastObamaCare.com Clements says that if all 50 states get sponsors he will have a movie pyrotechnics company blast an ObamaCare statue produced just for this occasion.

The movie's producer made these announcements in a web video at BlastObamaCare.com
